Corn King Bacon - Horrible, horrible, horrible.

Corn King bacon is shitty. Corn King Bacon has to be one of the most horrible meat products ever shrink-wrapped, boxed, and stuck in the butcher's cooler.

Corn King bacon is impossibly thin to work with. The meat has chunks of lop-sided fat that's congealed together and not cut properly.

There are a lot of things I don't know much about, but bacon is NOT one of them.

In the above picture please notice the Corn King wallowing in shit. Then notice the Corn King package full of shit. This seems like a better use of the packaging and my hard-earned dollar than buying your bacon.

I hope you die Corn King. You can't even slice open a pig's belly and carve out a decent chunk of fat from it's gut. It's not rocket science.

I've come up with a mouth-watering recipe using a pound of Corn King Bacon you may have accidentally ended up with.

What you'll need:

- 1 pound Corn King Bacon - (any variety will do)
- 1/2 cup mayo or salad dressing
- 1 tsp celery seed
- 2 tbsp white vinegar
- 4 - 4 oz pork chops

Directions : Preheat oven to 400 degrees

In a bowl, combine celery seed, vinegar, and salad dressing. Add a dash of pepper if desired.

Mix ingredients thoroughly until there are no lumps.

Pull apart the god-forsaken excuse for bacon (if you can) and pull it's gold leaf-like strips of hog fat onto a paper towel.

In a 14" glass bottom pan - take the chops and wrap them with the impossibly thin strips of "bacon". Use toothpicks to secure the gellatenous substance to the pork chops. Set in pan.

Pour previously mixed mayo mix over prepared chops.

Bake at 400 degrees for 40 minutes or until the bacon completely melts into fat and falls off of the pork chops.

Let cool for 5 - 10 minutes.

Carefully remove from oven, and empty contents of glassware into the garbage.

Now eat the glass bottom pan. - It will be more satisfying.

We disagree fully with you. We LOVE the Corn King bacon and we look for it in the stores. Where can we order some?

I agree. Corn king bacon is bad. It's sliced unreasonably thin. Even with the lower price, it's not worth it. You're better off buying the good stuff. This, is not the good stuff.

I'll never buy this this bacon again. It is made by Tyson and they don't care about the quality of their products. I encourage everyone to quit buying this crappy bacon.

To whom it concerns:

I have gotten Corn King Bacon for a long time and the last few packages that I have gotten were terrible, it was nothing but fat or fat and a little meat and when I cook it, it cooks up to nothing as it shrinks so much into such little pieces. It has always had a good flavor

Blog Export: Please God No, <http://www.pleasegodno.com/>

but when it is so small and you don't have enough to feed maybe one person that is how much it shrink. I was very unhappy with this last I brought so I do feel you need to return my money to me, as I usually by 4 or 5 packages at a time, I shop at Wrights Grocery in Glenwood, Ar. My mailing address is Gloria Edwards 65 Edwards Road. Glenwood AR 71943 until I hear something from your or your company I will not buy this brand again. Thank you Shut the fuck up. Corn King bacon is sweet as a country morn. Everyone over 40 knows that.

Anonymous on Jan 2 2011, 02:49

what a wreck i bought 4 pkgs of cornking bacon NO GOOD was all different sizes in the same pkg. some wouldnt pull away from other pieces it all ripped apart. what a pain in the butt. v4kze picked 2 pkgs. because it was on sale.....Never again, I see why they put it in a cardboard box, I would be embrassed too!!!! Nothing but fat, fell to pieces trying to get it pulled apart, (shaved bacon!?!?) I will pay the extra or do without!!
Anonymous on Jan 4 2011, 22:45

Purchased 2# of cornking bacon for BLT sandwiches. When we opened one pound it was 90% fat. The other pound was 80% fat and at the bottom all little pieces of so called bacon. This is robbing the costumer and should be stopped by the company. I will NEVER buy this product name again.

Corn king is one of the best tasting bacons i have ever ate. It fries up crisp and the shrinking isn't that bad. Sure you get a lot of grease after cooking it. I just save more money by cooking my eggs in it. Love Corn King Bacon buy 10 packs at a time.
Anonymous on Sep 17 2011, 21:10

Recently purchased a pound of your bacon - it is HORRIBLE - NOTHING BUT FAT. Not worth the money - I'd rather give up bacon than purchase yours again.
Anonymous on Oct 13 2011, 15:11

I agree with the statements above...horrible horrible bacon! If you can even call it that.....Packaged Fat would be more like it. Where is the quality control of this company that puts out a product like that? Where is the USDA that allows this to happen? Come on folks....make these people do their jobs or boycott buying this crap. Maybe we should contact the USDA for an inspection? Thats a thought!

I have always liked Cornking bacon, I bought 2 packages yesterday and it was horrible. The slices are all congealed together. I wouldn't recommend it to anyone else.

"F.Y.I. Corn King is the best bacon I've ever had! You should try it again and see how you like it. P.S. Don't put shit on the internet, its just wrong. Next time try using crap."

@blink, You must have eaten really really crappy bacon your entire life, or you work for corn king.

Either way corn king is terrible bacon. However, after reading the label, I found out the problem. The Bacon is made from corn instead of pork, no wonder there is no meat, it's made with corn oil, husks, few handfuls of dirt, and pig vomit.

I am so sorry, we should have known better than to assume bacon would be made from an actual animal.

Blink, you big dummy.

I bought some corn king bacon for supper lastnight and it was the worst and fattiest bacon ever. I tried to cut off about an inch of each end and tried to seperate to fry and all it did was crumble. There was barely any meat and the further I tried to peel off the slices the fatter it got. You really need to do something about your quality or lose your business. Horrible, Horrible and Horrible Almost makes me want to stop buying bacon. You aren't the only company who serves fat with your bacon there are others and it is a shame the price you people ask for a chunk of FAT!
